

US hoops back on top, beats Spain for gold

BEIJING—THE UNITED STATES ON Sunday won the gold medal in Olympic men's basketball with a 118-107 victory over Spain, culminating a three-year mission to end years of embarrassment.

The US Olympic team survived a huge challenge from Spain in an epic final of hard hits and flying elbows. After overwhelming everyone for seven games, the Americans led by only four points with under 2 1/2 minutes to play, then proved they could handle the close game that seemed would never come in Beijing.

Beijing Olympics end with mixed legacy

BEIJING—CHINA CONCLUDED its debut as Olympic host on Sunday after 16 days of near-fanatical logistics and spectacular athletic achievement that coexisted awkwardly with the government's warnings of disaster and free speech.

International Olympic Committee President Jacques Rogge declared the "truly exceptional" Beijing Games closed. "You have shown us the amazing power of sport," he told competitors.

GMA silent on MOA framework

By Arsenio Dela Cruz

THE SUPREME COURT'S suspension of the memorandum of agreement (MOA) on the establishment of an expanded Bangsamoro ancestral domain has delayed the signing of the deal.

Within three weeks of the high court's issuance of a temporary restraining order, the MOA—dismissed by accused transactivist Fr. Joseph Gervacio as a mere "piece of paper"—has stalled the negotiation of full-scale war between Philippine government forces and the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF).

The hostilities have broken the trust during which negotiations for a peace agreement between the Philippine government and MILF peace facilitator.

But military can't find MILF leader

By Nikita Glavin in Manila and Jeffrey Matson and Noah B. Mackinnon, Inquirer Mindanao

GOVERNMENT FORCES pursuing Ameril Omaira Kato yesterday said they had overrun two of his encampments but had found no trace of the wily Moro commander blamed for the recent surge of violence in Central Mindanao, the military reported.

But the Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) denied military claims that two "satellite camps" of Kato had fallen. MILF civil-military chief Ed Kalulu said the military must have been referring to "positions."

Col. Macdonald Salazar, the 68th Army Brigade commander based in Zamboanga, said his forces on Sunday drove Kato's men from what he called an MILF training camp to the remote village of Pusan in Marikina.

Salazar said the Pusan camp fell yesterday after an overnight artillery barrage and a bombing run by an OV10 aircraft.

On Friday the military also claimed to have captured Kato's satellite facility—called Camp Vietnam—in nearby Danao after pounding it with artillery fire and air strikes. Salazar did not give details on what that facility was or how many rebels were eliminated there.

US, Malaysia asked: Why are you backing MOA?

By Gil C. Calabangon Jr.

DEPOSITION SENATORS YESTERDAY called on the United States, Malaysia and other countries pushing for a peace pact creating an expanded Bangsamoro ancestral domain to explain their stances in endorsing the controversial memorandum of agreement (MOA).

Sen. Alan Peter Cayetano also raised questions on why the Philippine government had "carelessly" chosen to charge Moro Islamic Liberation Front (MILF) rebels who killed several towns in Lanao and North Cotabato as criminals rather than as terrorists.

"It would be naive to think that there are no foreign interests at play in the signing of the MOA," Cayetano said in an interview with ABS-CBN radio.

Senate Minority Leader Aquilino Pimentel Jr. also expressed his concerns over the perceived intervention by foreign interests in the proposed peace pact.

"I can only hope that Malaysia is a sincere broker for peace and has not trained its sights on the Liguasan Marsh (referring to the Moro stronghold in Mindanao). I also hope that the United States has no ulterior interests in this part of the globe," Pimentel said in a text message to the Inquirer.

Dawn impressed with non-surgical light treatment that can visibly rejuvenate skin after 30 minutes!

Actress Dawn Zulueta is all praises for IPL, the non-surgical photorejuvenation treatment at Facial Care Center. "One of my problems has always been the eruption of acne, which causes my blemishes," she reveals. "Since my skin is oily, I became prone to it. After I started doing IPL, I noticed that my pores got smaller and I stopped getting breakouts as early as the 3rd treatment. Over time, my skin was looking clearer, and complexion-wise, so much better. Before, I couldn't leave the house without putting on some concealer on my blemishes. Now I can go out with only sunscreen! I'm confident enough to do without make-up because my skin is clear and even."

IPL stands for intense Pulsed Light treatment. It's a broad spectrum of light to penetrate and safely treat different skin problems.

IPL can help remove dark spots, blemishes, freckles, skin discoloration, spider veins, broken capillaries, rosacea and other pigmentation on the face, neck, chest, back, hands and virtually anywhere these skin imperfections may appear. It can also control the skin's oil production and prevent the onset of acne breakouts. This made IPL appeal to Dawn, who has naturally oily, acne-prone skin. Since IPL heats up the underlying dermis (a deeper layer beneath the skin's superficial layer), it stimulates the skin cells to produce more collagen, repairing skin damage and promoting healthier, younger-looking skin.

What results can be expected?

Apart from clearing up the dark spots and blemishes, IPL gives skin a flawless complexion even without make-up. Pores are refined, giving the skin a smoother texture. Dawn happily claims she can confidently go out with only sunscreen on her face because of her regular IPL treatments. Immediately after an IPL treatment, clients often feel got compliments for having a noticeably healthy, pinkish glow on their skin.

How long before I can see these results?

Visible results are definitely noticed upon the first treatment of IPL. Pores are tightened, and the skin appears to have a more even complexion. Over time, one can see many improvements in their skin's appearance and texture as dark spots, blemishes, freckles, spider veins and other skin flaws are diminished. Dawn noticed the significant reduction of oil and breakouts after her 3rd treatment of IPL, and continued to see an improvement in her complexion after regular IPL treatments.

During an IPL treatment

How safe is IPL during the treatment?

The treatment is painless, as it only uses a broad spectrum of light over the area to be treated. It only takes approximately 30 minutes, and has no downtime. In fact, one can go on their regular schedule right after an IPL treatment. It's that quick and easy!

IPL is an ideal treatment for women who lead active and busy lifestyles because they can conveniently fit IPL treatments in their hectic schedules. With quick visible results and relatively no downtime, it is definitely a must-do for women who want to get beautiful, flawless skin without the hassles. Hunger-striking moms warned about using tots

By Joseph K. Up

THE CHAIRMAN of Human Rights (CHR) yesterday warned the mothers engaging a hunger strike in Quezon City, claiming that criminal charges would be filed against them if they continued to harm their children.

CHR Chair Lito Lina said in a statement, "The children must be removed as soon as possible to avoid any harm to their health."

Such conditions resulted in the death of the boy and the confinement of his younger brother in a hospital, the statement said.

"The parents can be held criminally liable for exposing their children to the dangers, and risks with such kind of environment," said De Lina, citing Republic Act No. 9262 or the Special Protection of Children Against Abuse, Neglect, Exploitation and Discrimination.

"From all angles, we are confident of the human rights of the children, and it's a public right indeed," she added.

Lina said the children were being neglected, De Lina directed the CHR team to closely coordinate with the local government unit, health officials and Department of Social Welfare and Development to urgently address the "abandonment."

She also urged local officials to immediately take the children from the picket line and place them in the care of government social workers if the parents fail to take them home.

DOY A. "PILIGRIM" PROMOTOR of the reproductive health bill, Atty. Rep. Edcel Lagman yesterday confirmed a press leak accusation—that he was making money from his so-called strategy.

"That's totally devoid of any basis" he countered in a phone interview with the Inquirer.

Lagman said there was no truth to all allegations for he and other supporters of the Reproductive Health and Population Development Act of 2008 were trying to bring legislation, earlier in establishing a highly lucrative contraception market in the Philippines.

The scheme partially began with a national policy for "reproductive health," which would then lead to the legalization of abortion, as is the trend in many countries.

Three-page article

the prospects for an early signing of a new peace agreement—either for the present basis, the suspended MOA, or a modified or "revised" form—have become more realistic than it was a decade ago.

Following the suspension of the MOA, however, rampant violence, MILF fighters' renewed attacks on government installations and villages in North Cotabato, Maguindanao and Lanao del Norte.

MILF leaders said the suspension prevented attacks by MILF units, which were suspended by what they believed was an assurance of the reconciliation granted by the MOA.

Since MILF fighters resumed their attacks two weeks ago, Defense Secretary Gilberto Rodano said at least 40 soldiers and civilians and several thousand rebels had been killed, and about 200,000 people had fled their homes.

The violence resumed in the wake of the suspension of the MOA was reflected by the reported attacks on civilians controlled during the Aug. 10 deadline on Lanao del Norte and Integrated by MILF units led by Commander Francisco Macabandao.

Some within a state

It was feared by some that President Macabandao's peace efforts, the suspension of the MOA, would be a setback for the peace process. The MILF leaders have insisted that the suspension of the MOA was a setback for the peace process.

scope appeared on national television, putting it in a defensive of the republic's sovereignty and national territorial integrity and in its efforts to protect the same.

Double-talk

In a suspension of double-talk, the President said, "because of their study and research results, as Commander in Chief, I have ordered the Armed Forces of the Philippines, and the Philippine National Police, to defend every inch of Philippine territory against MILF forces and immediately resume peace in the affected areas of Mindanao."

"We will not tolerate and will crush any attempt to destroy peace and development in Mindanao."

When asked the troops "to defend every inch of Philippine territory," he implied that the country was at war with the MILF but it was not clear whether he would defend Philippine territory from separatism and not against the MILF.

The agreement that was signed by government legislators signed a declaration of Philippine territory to Mindanao and Mindanao as the Philippines' national domain.

An AFP spokesman on the MOA said that the military would follow the President's lead in the suspension of the MOA.

Executive Secretary Eduardo Dato has indicated that before the MOA was signed, the government would have been in a position to negotiate the other parts, such as the Constitution, training, law and national government, which referred to it as the national government.

The MOA seemed to have reduced the Philippines' position to a dummy republic of the MILF.

The President has never said he intended the MOA, but in a contradictory change of tack regarding such opportunities, indicating an intention on Thursday that it would not sign the MOA in its present form.

Prime Secretary Arroyo said the administration was reviewing the MOA in light of numerous cases by several justices during last week's Supreme Court hearings on policies making the most serious agreement.

Dato said, "The position of Malabon is very clear. He will not yet sign the MOA, whatever the ruling of the Supreme Court will be... we will not sign the MOA in its present form." Malabon has stated that it had not intended the MOA.

Malabon to Manila

The statement followed the action filed last week by Solicitor General Antonio Dominguez asking the Supreme Court to declare the provision known "separatism" unconstitutional, apparently resulting in the intense questioning by several justices on the issue of Philippine sovereignty, constitutional primacy and the final disposition in Mindanao.

Some justices pointed out that the MOA was "politically biased" and that some of its provisions violated the Constitution. Malabon has indicated it would seek re-interpretation or review of the agreement.

Supreme Court spokesman Juan Velasco said the President's statement that it would seek re-interpretation was not enough. He said there was no formal consultation to the court of the government's intention.

Certain legal studies are still under way to clarify the position as a plea to render them moot. The motion was filed in the Supreme Court on Thursday.

The government has been given some time, in the meantime of the court during the two hearings, including the minimum resolution on the company's existing order. It was unclear if it would be the director of a business process.

Lim hails Roxas before Tondo folk

By Edwin C. Tanaka, Jr.

THE PNA PRACTICALLY AMNcorruption.

Spreading before residents of a coastal village in Tondo, Manila, Saturday, Mayor Eduardo Lim described Sen. Manuel Roxas II as someone who was caring, honest and trustworthy. Roxas, president of the Liberal Party, is known for being a rancher the presidency (1986).

"There are very few politicians who know what is really good for the country, whose names are never attached with corruption and who should be rewarded. I am now asking you to give Senator Mani Roxas," said Lim, speaking in Filipino, addressing about 500 Roxas residents in a short program which had Roxas in attendance.

Lim last week was named vice president of the Partido ng Masang Pilipino (PMP) by party founder, former President Joseph Estrada.

The chairman of a Manila council's human rights was the reason for their calling on Roxas last night.

Like a campaign

Days later, Roxas announced he was leaving the Manila mayor to join the UP-Tara Thorburn campaign, Lim honored the LP's commemoration of the Pinais Alonzo landing in 1971.

Lim and Roxas were together again Saturday for the launch of the residency center at the Roxas compound which was donated by Pinais & Gamble.

"You should choose who you should support, some don't like me. There are some politicians who pretend to care about you, but are actually just thinking of their own interests," said Lim.

The launch almost looked like a campaign rally with pictures of Roxas being displayed in some houses.

The center, named after Pinais, has a central cultural office for Pinais & Gamble products.

Manila Archbishop Cardinal Jaime Sin, administrator of the center, said "We looked around the village and saw what the children needed. They needed a place to study in their compound, to practice dance activities."

Alonso, 31, a voluntary teacher, gives workshops and conducts activities for children aged 7-13 in the compound, under the UP-Tara Thorburn and Pinais, trip in Pangasinan to Kibaraan program.

Values-based program

Sagip also offers activities for grade school children on weekends. Tondo Village also has Sagip, a values-based program for preschool children, on weekends.

Alonso, a computer science graduate, has chosen to teach poor children in Manila even without pay.

To better assist the program of her students, she has also chosen to live with them. She has been staying in Tondo Village in Roxas, away from her family, for nearly two years now.

Deal with law-abiding Muslims

As I said above, law-abiding Muslims are despising the MOA-AD, claiming they bring away parts of the islands of this country, and Islam will prosper in the region. Their position for the "baw't mesa" (bawa't mesa) has been established from the beginning of time.

Remembering to the fact that Islam is a religion of peace, it is not surprising that the law-abiding Muslims who follow the Constitution of the Philippines and adhere to its laws, who should have been established from the beginning of time, have established from the beginning of time.

SC junks BFAR 'food basket' allowance

By Lito B. Salaverde

RISE IN PRICES OF BASIC goods and not employees of the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquaculture Resources in Cebu City are not entitled to a P10,000-food basket allowance because its printing violated the Salary Standardization Law, the Supreme Court has ruled.

The high court rejected the plea of the BFAR regional office employees in Cebu City to continue a Commission on Audit (COA) ruling that prohibited the P10,000 food basket allowance granted to them in 2000.

The BFAR employee union earlier requested the SCMA, central office for the allowance because of the increasing prices of petroleum products that led to the spike in the prices of food commodities.

Chief Justice, Undersecretary of the Department of Agriculture, approved the request and P10,000 each month to be given to the 150 BFAR employees in the form of gift checks. The allowance was subsequently released.

But the COA Legal and Administrative Division (LAD) in Cebu related the allowance because it lacked legal basis. It said the General Appropriations Act of 2000 prohibited the payment of allowance except those authorized by law and that a budget circular banned the grant of food or rice gift checks. It also said the allowance was contrary to the Salary Standardization Law of Republic Act No. 8033, which states that all kinds of allowance are integrated in the salary scale.

PEPPER PRICES have increased but government workers in demand when it comes to food and allowances.

The COA LAD in the national office also found the BFAR employees' petition to allow the food aid. This prompted the SCMA in Cebu to issue a writ of certiorari to the high court, asking, among others, that the Commission before the state to free the people from poverty through policies that provide adequate social services.

But in an Aug. 11 decision granted by Chief Justice Benigno S. Aquino III, the high court sided with the COA and said the actual justice provision of the Commission are not self-creating principles.

"They are merely statements of principles and policies. To give them effect, legislative enactment is required," it said. The SCMA undersecretary's approval of the allowance was not enough to justify an allowance since a budget order for prohibition agencies from granting any food checks except those authorized by the Office of the President. In such order, he was asked to give the BFAR local authorities, it pointed out.

As to the SCMA employees' contention that the food allowance was not contrary to the Salary Standardization Law, the high court said Section 12 of the law states that all allowances are integrated in the standardized salary rates, with several exceptions.

"In the instant case, the Food Basket Allowance is definitely not in the nature of an allowance to encourage service rendered by officials and employees of the government in the performance of their official functions... it is a form of financial assistance to all officials and employees of BFAR," it said.

The food allowance is also deemed incorporated into the incentive, which is under the Budget Department of the Department of Agriculture and Forestry and is not an integral part of the basic salary and could no longer be given to them.

The high court pointed out that the BFAR employees themselves had received that the food basket allowance was an incentive to the workers for them to be more productive.

There is no law authorizing the P10,000 allowance to be granted, it added.

It further said that the food basket allowance could not be considered as exempt from the general rule under the Civil Service Commission, which provides the administrative legal system.

It would be the duty of the government to improve the government's efficiency.

allowing that the food allowance was granted to employees.

"It was not granted due to any extraordinary contribution or exceptional accomplishment by an employee. The Food Basket Allowance was primarily an economic recovery assistance to the employees," it said.

The high court also said the COA's disapproval of the allowance was clearly final and executory because the SCMA failed to appeal the COA LAD's ruling to the COA proper.

Disbarment case filed vs one Sabio

By Lito B. Salaverria

BEFORE HE COULD DISBARS HIS ACTIONS in a quest started by the Supreme Court, Presidential Commission on Good Government Chair Gaudin Sabio has been stopped with a disbarment complaint he allegedly filed to influence his brother in a race between the Commission on Elections (COMELEC) and the Office of the President.

Filing the complaint on Aug. 21 before the High Court's Office of the Bar Confession, lawyer Fernando Petre invoked the Code of Professional Responsibility that requires lawyers to refuse from influencing the courts, collaborating, assisting with judges or acting in concert with another branch of government in the normal course of judicial proceedings.

Petre asked that Sabio be investigated and be permanently barred from the legal profession if he is found guilty of such conduct.

Petre said Sabio's request will be his younger brother, Gov. of Agaña, Justice Jose Sabio Jr., during which he reportedly used to persuade the latter and to issue the temporary restraining order being sought by Sabio in the case a filed against the COMELEC and the Department of Justice Commission.

Jose Sabio, in his affidavit submitted to the panel investigating alleged irregularities in relation to the case, said Gaudin had asked to file and apparently leave him alone the case for did not have others.

"What business indeed did (Gaudin) Sabio have in arguing his case in which Malasang had no interest... at the point of requesting his brother's career?" Petre said.

Several Sabio brothers held office when he asked to stop his brother to leave the government.

MMDA TRAFFIC ENGINEERING CENTER STUDY

'U-turns lead to big gas savings'

By O'Neil

AN IN-DEPTH STUDY CONDUCTED BY THE Metropolitan Manila Development Authority has shown that to reach maligned U-turns that no longer throughout has led to 190 million to 150 million in fuel savings for motorists every year since 2005.

The MMDA also pointed out that its existing schemes have saved motorists more than P2 billion yearly in terms of gains in opportunity and productivity as a result of faster commutes.

The cost savings study was based on the findings of a study conducted by the MMDA Traffic Engineering Center, the agency's public information office said in a statement yesterday.

The study of fuel savings only P42.94 million (has been) saved every year since 2005 on around U-turns on established roads, while P51.45 million (has been) saved on U-turns on new roads.

MMDA Chief Report Francisco is saying. According to the MMDA, the savings resulted from significant increases in the average vehicle speed on major thoroughfares where 23 U-turns have been set up by the agency.

The savings of fuel savings to motorists, or the savings in time, have pay and fuel opportunities and productivity is now reported that up to P2.33 billion (has been) saved every year since 2005," the agency said.

The MMDA observed that despite the fact that U-turns in the way because of the "inconvenience" U-turns take motorists, "what they don't know is that the U-turns do have operational efficiency in time and space."

It is a U-turn, the flow of vehicles is moving and moving," the agency added.

"This is like even more when traveling at night, to which the flow of traffic at the U-turn is a continuous, unlike some corners where motorists need to stop at the red light," it said.

Police catch car thieves, recover vehicle

By Jeaneen L. Andaya

THREE SUSPECTED CAR THIEVES WERE arrested in Quezon City on Friday night.

Operation of the Quezon City Police District Anti-Gangstering unit (DAGU-ASGU) also recovered the vehicle—a white 1999 Toyota Corolla (SL 990)—stolen by Arden Reyes, a minor suspect.

An ASGU report said the car was taken while it was parked at Governor Avenue, Barasat 12 in Barangay Barasat, Quezon City, between 11 p.m. Thursday and 5 a.m. Friday.

It arrived 10 p.m. Friday, ASGU personnel led by SPO1 Sergeant were on patrol on Barasat Road when they spotted the stolen vehicle. They flagged the car down but the driver of the stolen Toyota Corolla suggested the gas, prompting the police to give chase.

The police finally caught up with the vehicle on Commonwealth Avenue near the corner of Ochoa Avenue. Placed under arrest were Reynaldo Reyes, Juan Francisco and Daniel Arasat.

US, global economies slip in unison

WASHINGTON—ECONOMIC PRO-blems have spread beyond the United States to other economies in the region and globally, threatening recovery and stability.

Only a few weeks ago, some economists still offered hope that the global economy could continue to grow in the United States, despite the US economy's slow, painful recovery. But now, as the global economy has slipped into a deep recession, the outlook is bleak.

Now, high energy prices, the loss of jobs and the decline of trading partners have combined to create a global economic crisis. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) expects global growth to slow significantly through the end of this year, dipping to 4.5 percent from 5.5 percent in 2007.

"The global economy is in a rough spot, caught between sharply slowing demand in most advanced economies and slowing growth in emerging markets," the IMF declared last month in its official World Economic Outlook.

All this means that economic troubles in the United States could quickly spread to the rest of the world. It could also mean a loss of confidence in the US dollar, which has been sinking fast in international markets. And the government's budget deficit, which is now over $1 trillion, could lead to a loss of confidence in the US dollar.

In the United States and many other large economies, the loss of jobs and the decline of trading partners is being exacerbated by a global economic crisis. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) expects global growth to slow significantly through the end of this year, dipping to 4.5 percent from 5.5 percent in 2007.

"The global economy is in a

The WORLD Scientists nail childhood nerve cancer gene

PHILADELPHIA—SCIENTISTS have identified the hereditary gene mutation behind a deadly form of childhood cancer, opening the way to genetic tests in high-risk families, according to study released on Sunday.

The same research gene has been previously linked to bone cancer and lung cancer in adults, as affected children could benefit from experimental drugs designed to suppress or silence the gene.

"This very important discovery not only helps us understand the genetic cause of this terrible disease, but also has led to dramatically new ideas for cancer therapy," said lead researcher John Ma, head of the Center for Childhood Cancer Research at The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

Neuroblastoma attacks the nervous system. While fairly rare, it accounts for seven percent of all childhood cancers, and 15 percent of non-white cancer deaths.

The disease has long puzzled scientists because of its highly variable symptoms, some forms with relapses, but others with no relapses, especially in older children, can be extremely aggressive.

"This discovery indicates we are closer to the true genetic cause of this disease, and the genetic information we have gathered from the genome of this disease's DNA," said lead researcher John Ma, head of the Center for Childhood Can-

Russia moves to recognize Georgia rebel regions

MOSCOW—Russia's parliament moved Monday to consider recognizing Georgia's two breakaway regions as independent, sending the message that Moscow recognizes the right of self-determination for these regions. The move comes as Russia and Georgia continue to fight over the breakaway regions of Abkhazia and South Ossetia, which have been under Russian control since 2008. The move is seen as a major step in Russia's efforts to gain international recognition for the regions.

CORONATION AT DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

Obama seeks to inspire as history beckons

DENVER, COLORADO—BARACK Obama will seek to bond with Americans still wary of his exotic life story and crusade for change, as he makes history by becoming the first black presidential nominee this week.

The 47-year-old son of a Kenyan poet mother and a white American mother will cap a campaign to political rise by formally accepting his party's choice as nominee of voters over into the Democratic National Convention from Thursday (Thursday in Manila).

Analysts estimate that only a White House race this setup up, Senator Obama will try to avoid the split to September's election, after a barrage from his Republican foe John McCain induced the race to a dead heat.

A compelling narrative will also unfold, as Hillary Clinton, who saw Obama last but not least for history and lost to become America's first woman president, is crowned by a party carved in two by down to a razor's edge.

The former first lady, who will still ensuring husband re-election, Bill Clinton, stepped after dominating Democratic politics for a generation, will be scrutinized for any sign they are threatening party unity.

With millions of voters tuning into the race for the first time, Barack Obama's life is a perfect chance to flesh out his biography, and to prove his ego is deflated too.

OBAMA and his wife Michelle

It is the very embodiment of the American dream.

"He has to make people more comfortable with him as a person," said Andrew Ross, a political science professor at the University of Arkansas. "That is his real opportunity here."

Obama's powerful interpersonal language of unity and hope, his his image and his to count on the white-collar Democrats was tested when critics of his African-American father figure replaced into public view early this year.

Became McCain attacks have also seen him back, painting his working rhetoric as the stuff of a national and historic celebration worthily lacking experience required of a US commander-in-chief.

Adam Laxton, a history professor at Princeton University, argued Obama's White House hopes might not in deflating himself, before Republican presidential attack troops do it for him.

"It's not down, he is going to have a big problem," Laxton said.

"He has had a really difficult month in August, and the Republicans have done a pretty good job in throwing him."

The criticism, Obama says, however, who took US politics by storm with a winning speech at the 2004 Democratic convention, projected an end to civil and race politics.

But the Obama of August 2006 seems to have undertaken some of Obama's critics, fighting Republicans who take a much-needed path to the White House.

In 2006, Democratic nominee John Kerry was doomed for going too early at his nomination as President George W. Bush.

Obama's selfless rhetoric and pick of former brother Sen. Joseph Biden as his vice presidential running mate, suggest he won't make a similar mistake.

"I cannot see me going to lose more trust between what Democrats are about and what he is about versus McCain," said Laxton.

Thoroughly modern Michelle, Obama's other half

By Jo Babbie

DENVER, COLORADO—AND where he is in inspiration and style icon. Right wing fans have dubbed her as an angry black activist. But for the first lady-in-waiting Michelle Obama, she is first and foremost a mom.

As her husband Barack Obama is expected to make history by being crowned the Democratic Party's first black presidential nominee, Michelle, 44, is doing her best to stay in the background.

Initially she had sought to stay in the shadows, partly out of a natural tendency to stay in the background, but mostly for the sake of her two young daughters, Malia, 18, and Sasha, 13.

But amid the excitement whipped up by Barack's steadily growing campaign for change, Michelle was thrust into the spotlight.

She has been seen in a variety of settings, from a high-profile campaign stop in Chicago, to a more intimate gathering with a group of friends.

Her image, strong, poised and stylish, has captured the hearts of many Americans, and she has become a role model for many young women.

Michelle's first public appearance was at a campaign stop in Chicago, where she was seen with her husband and two daughters.

former model appearing in a lower middle class family deeply rooted in Chicago's black community.

She has been called from multiple schools that never missed a day's work as the city's senior plant. Her mother played tennis with her after Michelle and sister Sojourner Clegg, only later taking over as a coach when the kids had grown.

Barack first met Michelle Robinson, as she was then known, when he joined the Chicago law firm where she worked. He found a hard time persuading her to go on a date, with Michelle rejecting because she was "too busy."

"I remember I wrote her down," Barack wrote in his book "The Audacity of Hope," telling how after she accompanied him to a class, she said she was on the verge of leaving him and saying his name.

They were married in 1992, and while a few years Barack had worked steadily on a full-time political career.

Barack has no doubt, argued that the situation of juggling two demanding jobs plus a young family led to stress as reported in his book.

Once asked by a reporter when it was the time being a political wife, Michelle replied: "It's hard. And that's why Barack is such a great dad."

She was expected to have been reluctant when her husband first discussed making a White House run, and eventually decided a promise from him to quit teaching to ensure her support.

But as the primary campaign got into full swing in 2007, Michelle took leave from her job as a senior president at the University of Chicago Medical Center to accompany her husband.

She is credited by many observers as being her husband's rock, her mother who loved his political career, although he said even she was losing the weight people he knew.

Biden got Obama call during root canal

By Jo Babbie

DENVER—JOHN BIDEN GOT the call from Barack Obama while accompanying his wife as she was getting a root canal.

As he waited in the dentist's office on Thursday, Biden's cell phone rang with the presidential candidate's secretary to his home.

It took a six-week process of elimination that always pointed in Biden's direction even if the Delaware Democrat couldn't believe he would actually be the pick.

The Democratic ticket, revealed on Saturday in Springfield, Illinois, began in June when Biden was approached by Obama in July and asked him if he'd consider being a candidate for vice president, according to two Biden aides.

Biden said he would not withdraw the requisite paperwork to the voting committee, but was skeptical that it would ever happen. A longtime friend who requested anonymity in a speech recently said Biden couldn't tell himself to believe he was in serious consideration because his hopes and expectations had been blown down so much by such a miserable showing in the Democratic presidential race.

In the end, it came down to Biden, Delaware Sen. Tim Wainwright and Virginia Gov. Tim Kaine, and several people involved in the deliberations, Kansas Gov. Kathleen Sebelius who was a strong contender but dropped out of contention as Obama's raised on the other hand.

William Bradford Huie, who was as closely to Obama in the process, was never seriously considered, and was often involved with the search. He added not to be surprised when she was going to be picked, the two officials said, speaking as members of anonymity to do so in the private discussion.

In the Biden camp, the announcement Obama said only prepared for an announcement of Biden, Kaine or Kaine—and Obama had made his decision by Thursday and called them all that day to tell them their fate.

From all accounts, Biden said just a handful of close friends and family he was being considered. They included his wife, Jill, Sen. Clinton, Sen. Tim Wainwright and Ashley, Biden's political adviser Valerie Huie-Owens, and longtime friend chief of staff Tim Lohmeier.

Injured Estimar settles for silver

Foe, crowd applaud gallant Pinay

By Ted S. Melendres

FEELING—MAYBE—Jenny Estimar, fighting something in her ankle and shoulder, bowed to China's Qin Li in an abbreviated final that broke the gallery's heart thready and resulted for the silver medal at the Beijing Games.

Estimar's Olympic medal, the Pinay stopped her from checking back into the arena for the second round, going home 4-0-0. She lost to the Olympic Sports Center venue the case to celebrate the young Filipino martial artist in the 52 kg division (lighting) final.

The gallery roared at her when she bowed, but she later to her locker, up-pressed and offered her hand to winning Estimar and then to her wife a tearful, for some 10 seconds.

"She (Estimar) was very brave," Qin later told the judges through an interpreter. "Simple but elegant from the previous fights, she fought well and did not surrender. My respect is to her."

THE ATENEO BLUE EAGLES FINALLY DID WHAT CONCH MORANES had wanted done in the second half.

With their second unit responding to the challenge, the Eagles knocked out a 79-66 win over the University of the Philippines Marikina to move within a win of a semifinal berth in the 7th FIBA Asian basketball competition yesterday at the Ateneo Coliseum.

LETN James Marikina of UP Marikina (right) was not by the defense of Ateneo's Jeron Canlas.

The prevailing Eagles, as for the only second round of a Final Four berth with an 11-1 record, stood to win just one of their last two games to clinch the first berth in the semifinal advantage.

University of the East also stood to re-entrance Paul Zia in the second round of the tournament in a 10-17 lead at the break.

“Our game plan was to score early, we wanted to drain the tempo of the game right away,” said coach. “We had a chance to go in the second half, we had a chance to go in the second half, we had a chance to go in the second half.”

University of the East coach, Paul Zia, said that the team was not going to let the Eagles get back into the game. “We had a chance to go in the second half, we had a chance to go in the second half, we had a chance to go in the second half.”

Pay yourself first: Does it really work?

By Ma. Sales Chaplin
 Inquirer.net

IF FINANCIAL PLANNERS ARE to be believed, the road to wealth is paved with things like "paying yourself first"—a clever way of saving automatic savings should be at the top of your priorities. In other words, pay yourself first before you pay the electric, telephone, cable television and other bills.

It sounds deceptively simple. You'll find financial guru David Bach ("Start Late, Finish Rich"), George Clancy (who wrote the 1992 classic "The Richest Man in Babylon") and Steve H. Covey ("The 7 Habits of the Highly Effective Man: Restoring the Character Ethic") preaching that if the government can automatically deduct taxes from your wages, you can do the same thing with personal savings.

That means you set aside a chunk of your personal income every month even before

Painless ways to save

1. Pay your debts.
2. Automate savings.
3. Invest the funds in a higher-yielding strategy, based on investment objectives.
4. Pretend you didn't get a paycheck in June.
5. Save money on groceries.
6. Look for new ways to save more.

The Mitsubishi Strada Scores ★★★★★

We have the Stars and a Moose to prove it.

2008 European New Car Assessment Program (Euro NCAP) and its Australian counterpart ANCAP awarded the Mitsubishi Strada four stars in the Mid-Size Pickup Protection category. "This is a top of the line's ability to provide a crash without passenger compartment intrusion." It also passed the Moose test, which determines how vehicles act when the driver loses a suddenly appearing object.

For more details on test results, visit www.euroncap.com and www.ancap.com.au.

Mitsubishi's Reinforced RISE Body Construction

Reinforced Impact Safety Evolution (RISE)

The comprehensive safety system of the Mitsubishi Strada offers all the necessary greatly improved all-around collision protection. Mitsubishi's exclusive RISE body construction incorporates front and rear crumple zones with reinforced beams to absorb collision force and direct it away from the vehicle's interior. The engine and drive components also absorb energy, preventing further damage from reaching the cabin.

Ways to manage virtual teams

Virtual team leaders should be able to manage different cultures, be sensitive to team dynamics, be creative in building teams.

By Vanessa C. Villaber and Marites A. Riosmena
Correspondence:

have paved the way for different modes of doing and organizing work. Coordinating and working with others without meeting face to face is now a reality for many organizations. But how does one manage virtual teams? The American Center for Organization Research and Development (ACORD) asked these Filipino managers: "What shed light on the challenges that they faced in managing virtual teams and the management practices that they consider to be valuable in ensuring their effectiveness?"

Ensure clarity of objectives and accountability of team members

According to one manager, managing virtual means looks down at having clear objectives and knowing how to communicate. He points out that having clear objectives makes the deletion of work easier. Managing a global virtual team demands that processes be strong and that people have a hand in determining what those processes will be. Influencers and stakeholders have to be laid down clearly as well.

Pay attention to team composition

It is especially important to find the right mix of people for the mission. Having someone to charge keeping tabs on everything and to actively releasing information is almost a must. The selection of individual team members is critical, too. Although people can be good incidentally, this does not ensure that they would be good team members. This means that no one is cut out for the mission, with the long-term, the team is kept with the demand of keeping how to communicate effectively.

and the fact that members must work independently. Thus, it is important to choose team members who are self-motivated.

Information systems support

Giving a virtual team tools support in terms of sharing and storing information, some of these are readily available through standardized software development processes. Special attention should be paid to security issues as well. The virtual manager has to be knowledgeable in these so as not to let the team be work effectively.

Adjusting management style

The management style of the leader in a virtual team might also considerably change, especially when team members are culturally different. The virtual manager should be culture sensitive. It is also an important that the virtual team supervisor act as a coach rather than a director, perhaps because virtual team members are more independent.

Small effects of a combined 10-week, 1000 kcal energy deficit on body composition and metabolic health in obese women

Capability building

Training people on conducting work virtually is, likewise, important. Some programs that are helpful are trainings on handling customer calls and writing a note that are sent and to the point. To maintain a balance between work and family, employees can be encouraged to work from home depending on their work.

The same hospital

holding face-to-face conversations as long as a year, especially if the team is a permanent one that is working together for some than three months, also help alleviate the feeling of isolation for team members. Although work can indeed be accomplished without physical interaction, personal familiarity with their virtual teammates somewhat makes the workload lighter. Familiarity helps avoid conflicts and disagreements within the team occur, if a manager adds that where disagreements happen over the phone, it will be hard to mend working relationships if the personal relationship is not that strong. Where, the whole team might suffer.

Newsreels, building team-building sessions can be enjoyable, though, so virtual team building can be an alternative. PowerPoint presentations seldom paired by pictures of team members broadcast over the network using a popular teleconferencing client is one variation of use of team building. Making and sharing virtual slides is another one.

It is clear that virtual teams present management challenges far beyond those that traditional work teams encounter. Virtual teams require leaders who have the ability to manage different cultures, are sensitive to team dynamics, are creative in building team cohesion despite the separation in space and time. To us, the increasingly technologically driven nature of today's business may mean there are no choices but to step up to the unique challenges of virtual teams and teams.

Talent-hungry small firms cheer Wall St. job cuts

NEW YORK—SMALLER FINANCIAL firms have found a way to capitalize on their larger rivals' woes, moving in step at some of the top-down cuts which by necessity are lengthening business recovery time.

Such firms, many of which have dodged the troubles gripping Wall Street, are phoning what they see as games in the billions from the credit crunch, which has led to more than 100,000 financial-sector job losses so far in 2008.

As economists at the biggest banks prepare for next year's budgets, their smaller cohorts are baring the rate will continue to increase next year, making the pool of unemployed robust both deeper and chancier.

"You buy your state hats in the winter," Ed Woodworth, president of Woodworth Men's Wear, said, "and if the windfall of a football season."

The Los Angeles-based investment bank, with annual revenue of $130 million, has grown from 600 employees in 2000 to the late two prunes, Whitham said. "We've been able to take advantage of the situation, clearly."

One year after problems in the U.S. meat supply market boosted demand for a full-blown 8-month crisis, big banks are under intense pressure to extend loans caused by the crisis.

Many have responded by increasing payrolls. New York-based Citigroup Inc. has added perhaps the biggest no. dropping 10,000 jobs this year alone. Over the same period, Merrill Lynch & Co. has estimated

But unlike in past financial crises, not everyone is caught in this dilemma. While mortgage-related securities are on the balance sheets of larger players, firms that avoided the worst of these products

"This has been a great experience for boutique and regional firms," said Gary Goldstein, president and chief executive of Whitney Group, an executive search firm specializing in financial services.

UST Singers hold Europe tour

UST Singers at the UST Quatrecentennial Square.

THE UNIVERSITY OF ST. THOMAS Singers will visit Spain, Germany, Belgium and France starting this month and will be representing the Philippines in different choral festivals along the way. The group's 15th International Concert Tour is titled "United Europe".

The first stop will be at the Expo Zaragoza 2008, followed by the Simposium del Internacional de la Música, Aug. 29 to Sept. 5. The group will then proceed to the American International de Canto Coral "Caja de las Guitarras" Sept. 6 to 13. Participating choirs will be coming from Japan, Venezuela, Chile, Spain, France, Brazil, Argentina and Hungary.

The UST Singers will also be a part of the Mayaguez International Choral Festival in France, Oct. 31 to Nov. 7. Before then, they will be back in Manila after the tour of Spain for their concert on Oct. 16, at the Philippine Auditorium, which is sponsored by the UST College of Education Alumni Association.

The UST Singers are a mixed choral ensemble composed of students and alumni from among the various colleges and faculties of the Pamantasan ng Lungsod ng Unibersidad in Manila, Philippines. Since 1963, the choir has become one of the most established Philippine choral groups abroad.

In 1995, the UST Singers were declared the Choir of the World in the world's oldest choral competition — the World Choral Championships in Helsinki, Finland. In 1998, it won the 5th Asia Pacific "Choral Festival" in Italy, earning the right to represent Manila at the 11th European Grand Prix of Choral Singing in Rome, Belgium.

They have secured several awards from the Manila Choral Works Musicale in Chicago, Czech Republic, the European International Choral Festival in Switzerland, Taipei 2000 in Switzerland, and the World Choral Festival in Puebla, Mexico. Founder and conductor is Prof. Edil Calalang, head of UST Conservatory of Music's Conducting Department. Recently, he was awarded the International Jury of the 26th International Festival of Academic Choral Competition in Portland, Czech Republic.

Former members of the group who are now based in the US have organized themselves into the UST Singers Alumni in America, participating in the recently concluded Niles International Choral Festival, where they were widely applauded. Log on to www.ustsingers.blogspot.com.

UP Chorus in concert

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE PHILIPPINES Chorus presents its concert series on August 16, "UP Chorus: The Karon Play" in celebration of the university's centennial year.

The concert pays tribute to the performing group's 40-year-old artistic excellence and versatility. Through the decades and across genres — from classic OPM transcriptions "Ray Gonzales singing Mabalani" to the pulsating "Guns n' Roses 'N' Roll", "Schubert's Magnificence" to "Phantom of the Opera" —, UP Chorus shines through the musical spectrum with exceptional grace.

Conductor is Janet Salinas-Arreola. The group gives a rendition of Gary Valenciano's "Gone With a Wind" using a unique style with percussion.

"UP Chorus" is at the College of Engineering Theatre, CE Edna, on Aug. 29, 7 p.m., and on Aug. 30, at 2 p.m. Tickets at P150 only. Contact 0913-4188236/0915-6281133 or e-mail at upchorus@up.edu.ph or visit www.upchorus.edu.ph.

The actual "Woodhens" in Compagnie de l'Arctique-Montagne and Ellesmere seemed to end in the fact that both groups were established in France (1981 and 1998, respectively), and all the females speak the Inuktitut-Gwich'in language.

Both productions took their cues all over Atlanta and some parts of Europe and the west were eager to share Franco's eclectic style as a melting pot of dance. There were much-appreciated scenes of diverse elements, including various cultural influences and dance styles.

Reality bites for gay newbie

MALE REALITY SHOW HOSTS last season left behind a trail of controversy, including the late host's public admission of being gay. Now, a new season of the show is set to air, and it's not clear if the show will be as controversial as the first.

The host, who is openly gay, is now a public figure. He has been on the cover of Out magazine and has been featured in various media outlets. The show is set to air on the same network as the first season.

The (reality) reason

There's no doubt in the minds of many viewers that the show is a success. It's a reality show about reality, and it's a reality show about reality. The show is a success because it's a reality show about reality.

Acting 'styles' to avoid

THE ART AND CRAFT OF ACTING never differs: things to offend people. Some actors think acting is looking good and sounding good. Others believe acting is reacting, being, believing. In local view, however, "acting" is a dirty word, and it's a dirty word that's in their great books, the Acting collection has become more and more controversial. There's no doubt that acting is the small and big words that will give good performers the stars they want.

If you believe that the good work is the best, there are some of the greatest acting "styles" to avoid.
